

JPL Student Showcase

Your Science Projects

Our Science Projects

You're invited to NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory "Student Showcase"

NASA would like to honor your interest and enthusiasm for science, technology, engineering, and mathematics by inviting you to display your project at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory's "Student Showcase." This will be an opportunity to show your work, interact with JPL scientists and engineers, and tour JPL facilities like the Space Flight Operations Facility and Spacecraft Assembly Facility.

Advanced registration is required for you and 1 adult chaperone. There is no charge but space is limited. Individual and small team projects are welcome and lunch will be provided. Project displays must meet science fair safety standards and only static displays are allowed. Please read all the information at the registration site. An additional release/permission form will be required. You will be informed if you are accepted to attend by Thursday, April 9. Visit our booth at the Science Fair for more information.

Register at www.jpl.nasa.gov/edu/showcase

Registration will open at 3:00 PM on Monday, March 30.
